About Rib Lake

Rib Lake is located in a village in Taylor County, which is in north central Wisconsin.

The population was 910 at the 2010 census, which has grown 3.64% since 2000. The village is within the Town of Rib Lake.

The jewel of town is their 320 acre lake also named Rib Lake. Local lakes offer amazing fishing, swimming and boating activities. Rib Lake has many parks, access to Ice Age Trail, and is surrounded by public forests. The options for outdoor activities are unlimited – ATV riding, snowmobiling, hunting, horseback riding, biking, canoeing & kayaking, skiing, camping, hiking and wildlife viewing.

Rib Lake has recently supported a referendum to update their facilities. They continue to invest in their future and can accommodate future growth. Current growth has been attributed to growing young families coming to raise their children and take advantage of their quality school district.
